

WINDELS
MARX

Tradition. Innovation. Distinction.

American inventor Thomas Edison once said, "Genius is one percent inspiration and 99% perspiration."

When that genius was tested, Windels Marx represented Edison in litigation that confirmed his claim to be the inventor of the incandescent electric light.

Back when Big Blue was in its infancy, Windels Marx was counsel to IBM when it incorporated in the early 1900s.

Tradition.

Windels Marx and its predecessor firms began practicing law in the 1830s. A tradition of leadership is evident throughout our history, including founding members and officers of the preeminent New York State Bar Association and the Association of the Bar of the City of New York.

Innovation.

We are a midsize firm that has great pride in our ability to offer sophisticated legal services on a par with larger law firms, while also providing the focused attention often associated with boutique firms.

Distinction.

Our tireless work on behalf of clients has been recognized among numerous industry and legal benchmarking surveys.

Practices

- Banking
- Bankruptcy and Creditors' Rights
- Corporate and Securities
- Employment and Employee Benefits
- Financial Transactions
- Governmental Relations
- Health Law
- Hospitality
- Infrastructure Development and Finance
- Insurance
- IP Hatch-Waxman Act
- IP Licensing Litigation
- IP, Technology and e-Commerce
- Litigation and Alternative Dispute Resolution
- Private Client Services, Estates and Trusts
- Public Finance and Not-for-Profit
- Real Estate
- Renewable Energy and Sustainability
- Tax, Tax Liens and Mortgage Foreclosure
- Transportation
- Workouts and Restructurings

Thank You!

As Seen In

